Inside Look: The World of Literature

Library Hotel, New York, New York: 13-15 January 2008

Join Host Jim Bildner for a first-of-its-kind program which explores the world of writing, publishing and liter Developed in conjunction with the Literary Ventures Fund, a nonprofit venture philanthropy investing in lite intense Inside Look will examine the forces shaping the changing world of literature in our culture and addi questions about the future of the book.

After a kick-off panel featuring executives from Publishers Weekly, Grove/Atlantic, Hyperion and Warner T program will break out into sessions which follow three tracks:

- Track 1: Writing – consists of writing workshops led by nationally recognized faculty and auth seminars on memoirs, non-fiction, fiction and poetry.
- Track 2: Literature – looks at the future of books and analyzes the impact of digitization on b media forms of literature. Do these threaten or enhance literature in today's culture? Will the lit environment continue to support great writers?
- Track 3: Publishing – hear first-hand from agents and editors on how to get a book publishec entailed in marketing it.

Attendees will also take tours of some of the city's most important historic literary sites, including NYU's Bc the famed Hemingway Bar at the Algonquin Hotel.

Sign up now for this literary-packed event!

Registration opens today and is limited to 40 participants. For more information, please contact CEO Direc Jennifer Lehmann Weng at 301.280.2560.

Two weeks after the massive 8.0 magnitude earthquake that cracked open south-central Peru, hon disease, and despair still lay in all directions while international aid has staggered at best and is pa inadequate at worst. But the magnitude of the statistics wrung up by the natural calamity is graphi illuminated in headlines in the BBC, the New York Times, and CNN: 514 are dead, 1090 are inju 39,741 are homeless with the range of all of those stricken or affected by the earthquake running a 200,000. The United Nations has revealed that save for the initial wave of relief, substantive emer provided by the European Union, Japan, the United States, New Zealand, and countries throughou Americas, has not been sustained. As of now, the goal of the U.N. is to raise an additional $37 mi in assistance for Peru. As Peruvian President Alan Garcia has estimated, the total cost of infrastructure rehabilitation which will be needed in the coastal regions devastated by the quake will be as much as $220 million. Bureaucracy and red tape has already ensnarled the road heading back, compounding the humanitarian crisis and slowing the distribution of the relatively modest funds that already have arrived.

Arctic Energy Summit Technology Conference Anchorage, Alaska Oct. 15 - 18, 2007

Registration is now available to attend the premier energy conference of the International Polar Year, the Arctic Energy Summit Technology Conference, hosted by the U.S. Department of State and set for October 15 - 18, 2007 at the William A Egan Civic and Convention Center. Focusing on the theme The Arctic as an emerging energy province, energy experts from the Russian Federation, Canada, Norway, Finland, Sweden, Iceland and the U.S. will discuss, debate and collaborate on energy challenges and opportunities in the extractive and renewable fields, as well as tackling how to provide affordable energy to the Arctic remote communities.

Arctic Energy Summit Technology Conference
Website: www.arcticenergysummit.org

The conference comprises an opening day of high-level keynote speakers on energy related issues through the Arctic, followed by two days of technical papers on significant Arctic energy research, panel discussions and keynote addresses on major policy areas of concern and/or interest, as well as a poster session of new technology and an energy industry exposition. AES presentations and exhibits will focus on both renewable energy opportunities and traditional extractive energy sources within the Arctic.
The focus of this conference will be in three areas:

1. Extractive energy development (oil, gas, coal bed methane, methane gas hydrates, coal);
2. Renewable power, especially in extreme remote areas;
3. Environmental, socio-economic and sustainability impacts of energy projects in the Arctic.

You are encouraged to take advantage of the early-bird registration; deadline September 7, 2007.

To register for the upcoming technology conference, please go to https://www.confmanager.com/communities/c680/files/hidden/AES_Registration_brochure.pdf

Frank,

Sorry, know you're busy but I just forwarded a letter to you from Hickel to the Governor. If you could print it out for her. He also indicated it was faxed to the office if you can't. I was curious what prompted it so I called him and he said they are hearing from legislators that the administration may stay w/PPT and that the Governor is being influenced by the bureacracy that crafted this under murkowski. I told him I was in Seattle and that I'd ask you to follow-up w/him on this (wanting to speak w/Governor on this).

Thanks!

Sorry this took awhile to track down. The attached is an explanation of the two items you asked about, deployment of the AANG and the August 30 funeral service.

In short this office was not informed of the deployment of the 15 members from the AANG to Afghanistan

We regretted the funeral because this is a monthly ceremony that the base does and was not specific to any one individual that was killed in action. These ceremonies's occurs once a month and this one in particular was for the active duty Army component not for the ANG troops.

J- did california just request this- for the weekend? It's too bad they only gave one week notice.

Let me look at the port visit - we have the busy press conf that day and travel to Juneau.

Todd gave an open hse date to Erika awhile back-I'll chk with him on what they already worked out for that event.

We'll do that Gov's challenge- I'll ask around the Anchorage office for the info unless you can send it again to them. I dont have the info. Is it something you could also coordinate with HESS Commish Jackson? We're looking for some kind of fitness-type event to highlight need for active lifestyle- maybe HESS (Anna Kim would know) would assist on whatever the event is. Talis and other could participate too? Depending on what it is... Thanks!

Subject: Scheduling Requests

Governor and Todd –

You have both been included in an invitation from Bill Sheffield to visit the Port of Anchorage on September 11 (Tuesday) from 9:00 a.m. – 2:00 p.m. as Horizon and TOTE will host their Annual Food Drive Bar-B-Que. A donation of $1M in gravel will also take place during this time. This will give you first hand the opportunity for tour and to meet with majority of people who make the Port operate. In this regards we have also received a phone call from Paul Fuhs and Scott Heyworth to get your confirmation. Scott said that this was discussed with the Governor previously and that you agreed to make it. In a previous request from Bill Sheffield - Commissioner von Scheben toured the Port of Anchorage in July.

The California Republican party is inviting the Governor to be the featured speaker at their state convention. September 7 - 9, 2007. They are asking that the speech take place at one of the meal functions which draws the largest attendance. Dinner Fri., Sat., Lunch Saturday, Sunday General Session. This is held at the Renaissance Esmeralda Resort & spa in Indian Wells, California.

A letter had come in earlier (in your reading file) asking for the Governor and First Gentleman to participate in the Governor and Spouses Challenge beginning Sept. 15 - Jan. 31, 2008. Will you both be participating in this request?

Even though September is soon upon us, we need to decide a date in December for the Juneau Open House. This needs to be done this far in advance for preparation purposes. Last years date was December 11. May we suggest December 10 which is a Monday and approximately 2 weeks before Christmas.

Rep. Peggy Wilson and Rep. Bill Thomas met with Russ Kelly today. Russ just reported that the meeting went well and they were both very happy.

Thanks, Janice

Subject: PFD Announcement

Governor,

As we discussed last night, you would like the announcement of the PFD amount this year to be made in the bush rather than a big ballroom in Anchorage or Fairbanks. Based on our discussion, I got the impression that you would like to be there to make the announcement. The announcement should be made September 19, 20, or 21.

I asked the PFD folks to look at some statistics to see if any bush community stands out in any way. So far, I have the following:

Scammon Bay has the highest percentage of kids applying for PFD's (52.5%).

If we're just looking for a rural hub to use, and we stick to the AK Air locations, we can choose from: Kotzebue, Nome, Barrow, King Salmon, Bethel, and Dillingham.

Let me know how you want to proceed.

Governor - I have put your flight schedules on the calendar. You will be coming down to Juneau on the 6:00 p.m. flt. On Tuesday. I have you returning to Anchorage on Thursday the 1:30 p.m. flight. As of Sept. 1, AK Airlines has discontinued the early evening flight back to Anchorage so that would only leave you the late 8:00 p.m. flight and get you in Anchorage @ 10:30 p.m.

Have a Wonderful Labor Day Weekend with your family. Tell Todd we got cut off on the phone this a.m. but that I am working on scheduling. Thanks, Janice

Subject: RE: Family and Media (and Plumbing)

Hello Governor,

Thank you for keeping me informed with everything that is taking place, but please let me know if there's anything you would like for me to do or respond to.

As far as the current staff at the Residence- we have been asked where the kids are enrolled as people are curious, but our reply had been that "we don't know"- which was accurate and honest since we never received word that a decision was made or we say that we're not at liberty to give out personal information– I just gauge my response based on why and how they're asking... not wanting to sound like we have a gag order. I haven't given out information to the contractors as it's not necessary and not our business to tell-of course if it's obvious that you'll be in Jnu. at a particular event and it's something you or Sharon have made public then they'll know.

The sense that I get is- of course Juneauites would love to have the Governor move in and live here, but (especially those with children) seem understanding of your decision in regards to your family. The majority of families can relate to the juggling that takes place to manage a home/kids.

I'm sorry I don't pass on all the positive comments that people have to say in regards to your family and that they love seeing the buoy swings and trampoline in the yard and that the 3rd floor lights are on- basically they love seeing the House in full swing with the hustle and bustle of a family living in it. Those kind of comments aren't anything political just neighborly stuff. I'm adding this because I don't think most regular people would write an editorial comment– so you don't hear from some of the every day citizens (moms, etc..we're too busy!!) who even though we live in Jnu. can relate to your decisions- even if you do have a much bigger job then most. :)

We love it when you and the family are here, but the positive thing for the House is that while you're not here; I'm going to take full advantage of every minute to get the plumbing project moving along. A 95 year old house can hold some surprises during a project of this size- not to mention any kind of construction project- so my hope is to let them work the long hours and if anything unexpected crops up- then we hopefully have some time stock-piled and can stay on schedule.

This morning we met again with prospective contractors on another walk through and are getting the logistics and questions worked out- getting the engineer/architect plans meshed with the contractors. When the bid is awarded I can give you (Todd and Janice) the proposed schedule and we can adjust it according to yours.

Take care!

Erika

Subject: DMVA

Sorry this took awhile to track down. The attached is an explanation of the two items you asked about, deployment of the AANG and the August 30 funeral service.

In short this office was not informed of the deployment of the 15 members from the AANG to Afghanistan

We regretted the funeral because this is a monthly ceremony that the base does and was not specific to any one individual that was killed in action. These ceremonies's occurs once a month and this one in particular was for the active duty Army component not for the ANG troops.

Mike

Military Funerals/ Memorials/ Ceremonies

There are three types of events where families and organizations honor our fallen troops: funerals, memorial services, and ceremonies. Funerals and memorial services are sponsored by the family and protocol is directed by the family. This includes where the event will be held and who will be invited. Ceremonies are controlled by 3rd party individuals. These events may honor one or multiple fallen warriors, by name or by affiliation.

On August 30, 2007 Fort Richardson Rear Detachment, 4th Brigade Combat Team led a Unit Memorial Ceremony to honor their coworkers who died overseas. This event has been happening about once a month due to the high number of casualties the 4/25 has taken while deployed to Iraq.

The Rear Detachment Commander, Captain Brent Fogelman, contacted protocol to invite their preferred list of dignitaries to attend the event. Unfortunately we have had five fatalities of Alaska National Guard members in the War on Terror. These have all occurred before August 2006. From this time the active duty component has suffered losses and therefore controls all memorial type events.

During the previous administration, advance notice of Soldier casualties was given directly to the Governor by the United States Army Alaska Commander. The previous administration violated the confidential release requirements set to protect the loved ones of the fallen Soldier. Due to this violation the United States Army Alaska will no longer provide/ release sensitive information.

The Alaska Department of Military and Veterans Affairs is in regular contact with the United States Army Alaska protocol office to make sure lists are kept current and the appropriate staffers are included on each list. DMVA is often not invited to the same events as the Governor and we recognize the importance to have clear, dependable contacts in the Governor's office for timely notification by United States Army Alaska. The Office of the Governor is notified through Governor Palin's scheduler and the regret email concerning yesterday's unit memorial ceremony is attached.

Deployment Updates and Communication to the Office of the Governor

Until this week there is has been successful communication between our two offices to make sure proper notification is given for the Governor to maximize every opportunity to be with her troops, the Alaska National Guard.

The National Guard "joint operations center" gathers force allocation data and distributes this to division leaders and the Office of the Commissioner. This report provides a one stop source for how many Soldiers and Airmen are deployed, where they are deployed to, and what unit is being tasked.

Unfortunately the Air Guard deployment to Afghanistan was not added to this report. I am very sensitive to providing Governor Palin with every opportunity to support her troops and I have already directed Air Guard leadership to ensure the proper notification will take place to alert Governor Palin in a timely fashion.

I am taking personal responsibility for these actions and you may see command structure changes due to these mistakes.
